THE MORMON QUESTION.

Culpable Delays of the Government in Settling the Affairs of Utah—Improbability of the Success of Military Operations this Year.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

On the 4th of March last, JAMES BUCHANAN was sworn in as President of these United States and the Territories. Therefore his Administration has been dragging its slow length along for eighty days without coming to any conclusion in reference to the party who should be sent to administer to the "Saints" in Utah. No one knows to-day what is to be done with Utah. Ask the members of the Cabinet what is to be done, and they very politely inform you that decided steps will be taken; that the laws of the country will be enforced; that as soon as Maj. McCULLOCH is heard from, or as soon as Judge EDMUNDS of Indiana is heard from, or as soon as Senator FOOTE is consulted, decided action will be taken; while, in the mean time, it all seems to be decided "talk" but no decided "order." Reasonable men know that the distance from the Missouri River to Salt Lake City is more than twelve hundred miles; hence the imperative necessity of action, without so much undecided talk and promises unfulfilled. Had FREMONT been elected, with his anti-polygamy plank in his Presidential platform, you would have seen Gen. HARNEY out as far as Fort Kearney, a distance of full three hundred miles, with the proper antidote for Mormonism, and a prompt and efficient man en route for Utah to ease Gov. YOUNG of his Gubernatorial honors; but for fear of displeasing the Mormons, by appointing a man who is opposed to Mormonism, the whole Summer will be spent in talk and "decided" promises, and feeble, undecided action.

Now let an old soldier present a few figures in the shape of facts, as this Administration has calculations to make in regard to men, measures, miles and money, for full six hours per day, for many a long day, at the present rate, before they can spike BRIGHAM'S gun. It is intimated that two hundred men will be sent to Utah. Well, say that two hundred men will require twenty-five baggage wagons, with six mules to each wagon, making in all one hundred and fifty mules; to this add twenty-five riding mules and twenty-five more to be used in case of accident, and you have two hundred mules. Two hundred mules, at one hundred and fifty dollars each, will cost thirty thousand dollars. To this add the value of the wagons, harness, field pieces, ammunition, provisions for the men and two hundred coffins, (for most assuredly the two hundred men never would reach the "peaceful valleys of the mountains," and hence the necessity of preparing coffins, for it would be barbarous to send two hundred men into the jaws of certain death, without some preparation for burial on the part of this decided Administration,) and you will have full one hundred thousand dollars of the people's money expended. Now let us ask: Will they stand such lavish expenditures of money to build up Mormonism, or will they repudiate? The question seems to meet an affirmative response. The men are to go. Now, When do they start from Fort Leavenworth? No one answers, but let a Yankee "guess" at the first of July. What number of miles will they travel per day? Twenty-five at furthest, but twenty on an average. Then divide twelve hundred miles by twenty, and you get the number of days that will be spent in the actual travel, and you have sixty days, by the nearest possible route. To this add, at least, twenty more for bad roads, bad camping grounds, bad water, stampeded stock, lame mules, sick men, and all the concomitant evils attending a trip to "the Peaceful Valleys," and you have eighty days' time, which is little enough, with the best kind of management, that lands you, with good luck, (always guarding against the Indians on the lower and upper roads,) in the Hornet's Nest, on or about the 20th day of September. At that time you may begin to look for snow on the high lands on the road; the pastures will be dried up and destroyed; the water stagnant, and occasionally pools and springs poisoned. The "saints" will have their grain all harvested and put away, and will have none to sell the "Gentiles." The grass will be too old and dry for hay, and the "saints," of course, have no hay, save for themselves. Hence you see, Mr. Editor, that we had as well rub out and begin again early next year, with "most decided" action, and by that time the "Gentiles" now in Utah will have paid the debt of nature, by dying premature deaths, at the hands of a band of secret, oath-bound murderers, and there will be no one left to advise or inform the officers sent by the Administration as to the individuals who are "decidedly" set apart for the special purpose of killing off the "Gentiles;" and then they will be quickly ensnared and slain. But, query: will not DOUGLAS determine, before that time, that these lawless creatures are incapable of self-government, and introduce a bill to repeal the act for the organization of Utah Territory, and then let Uncle Sam govern and treat these outlaws as alien enemies, which they are in the strictest sense of the word; for if there is a lawless banditti collected together on earth composed of the scum of all kingdoms, countries, classes and churches, for one common purpose of radical and determined wrong, it is the members of the "Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints." BRIGHAM YOUNG, in the last half of the nineteenth century, in enlightened America, whose mild Government is the pride of the civilized nations of the earth, stands boldly at the head of an organized mob of land pirates, and breathes open defiance at the Government under which he lives.

Have not the American people the right, and is it not their duty to demand speedy and decided action on this vital subject? And in conclusion let me say, in all candor, that the idea of sending only two hundred men to enforce law and order in Utah is so extremely ridiculous as to call aloud for the sympathy of the sufferers, in lieu of their hatred toward the Administration. If even one thousand men were sent to Utah, the first fight between them and the Mormons would end the lives of all the force. Fight, the Mormons will, and fight they must, and nothing but a fight will ever settle the course of this foul American stain.

AMICUS CURIÆ.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24, 1857.

The Late Col. Crabb.

The news of the probable fate of HENRY A. CRABB, leader of the expedition to Sonora, has brought to the mind of the writer, who knew him well, some recollections of him previous to his removal to California, which may not be devoid of interest to the readers of the TIMES.

From 1847 to 1850 CRABB was a resident of Vicksburg, Miss., and was there greatly respected for his many noble and manly qualities. His courtesy and kindness were also remarkable. A young lawyer, his practice was not extensive, although his talents were generally admitted. During the Presidential canvass of 1848, being a strong Taylor man, he became involved in an unfortunate difficulty with JOHN JENKINS, a prominent Democrat, and Editor of the Vicksburg Sentinel, who attacked him in the street with a bowie-knife, wounding him in a most frightful manner in the face and neck. CRABB then drew a pistol and shot him through the head, killing him instantly. The act was so clearly done in self-defence that the case was never brought to trial, nor did CRABB suffer in the estimation of the public, if we except a few warm personal and political friends of his assailant.

The following year he was a candidate for the office of District Attorney, and performed herculanean labors in the canvass, visiting nearly every voter in the five or six counties of which the District was composed, but it was too strongly Democratic to elect a Whig, and he was defeated.

In 1850 he went to California, and his subsequent career there is well known.

His personal appearance was striking. He was about five feet nine inches in height, well formed, and very muscular. His complexion was florid, and his face rather heavy, but frank and intelligent, and there was an air of firmness and decision about him that admirably fitted him to command such an expedition as that, at the head of which he bravely met his fate. Peace to his memory.

POLICE PROGRESS.

Both Boards of Commissioners in Session.

The New Badges—The Mayor Does Not Relax his Opposition.

The Governors of the Almshouse Discuss the Subject.

THE ANONYMOUS LETTER AND TOMBS GUARD.

The office of the Metropolitan Commissioners, at No. 88 White-street, is a busy place. From sunrise to sunset it is thronged with people, lookers-out for office, incumbent or aspirant, policemen, and others.

The Commissioners met yesterday at the usual hour, 10 o'clock A. M., President DRAPER presiding. After the transaction of the usual preliminary and routine business, Commissioner NYE offered a resolution, which was adopted, that Commissioner BOWEN be appointed on the Committee on Station-houses until the return of Mr. STRAHAHAN, who is absent on account of indisposition.

The subject of police uniform was referred to the Committee on General Discipline.

A report from Deputy Superintendent FOLK, of Brooklyn, addressed to General Superintendent TALLMADGE, was read.

Mr. FOLK's report is very long. It gives the names of all the officers and men on the Brooklyn Police; the number sick, on detail and patrol; the number against whom charges are pending, &c. This report was ordered on file, after which the Board adjourned for the day.

Superintendent TALLMADGE has asked Mr. Folk for further particulars,—has asked for the names of all the officers and men favorable to the new Board, and of those opposed. The reply will be received within a day or two, and will be submitted to the Commissioners, who will act thereon.

Yesterday, the following order was served upon all the Police Inspectors within the Metropolitan Police District:

General Order No. 2.

OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE METROPOLITAN POLICE, No. 88 WHITE STREET, NEW-YORK, Tuesday, May 26, 1857.

To CAPTAIN—SIR: On the 21st day of May, inst., in compliance with an order received by me from the Commissioners of Police, you were directed to make your reports and returns to the Deputy-Superintendent of Police.

Many of the Captains have complied with this order, while others have neglected its requirements.

The Commissioners have regarded this neglect with forbearance, being aware that unremitted efforts have been made by those whose positions should have induced them to frown upon any violation of the laws of the State of New-York, and which misguided efforts have influenced several officers of this Department to disregard the mandates of the law. No such apology for your dereliction of duty now exists, as the foundation of hostility to the law and its requirement is removed by the decision of the Supreme Court, and I again refer you to the order above alluded to, and require a prompt obedience to the same.

A neglect or refusal on your part to comply with the rules and regulations of this Department above indicated will be immediately reported to the Commissioners of Police, by whom it will meet with prompt action.

I inclose to you duplicate copies of the law, as well as of the rules and regulations of this Department.

FREDERICK A. TALLMADGE,
General Superintendent of Metropolitan Police.

Those failing to respond to the above order will be immediately tried and dismissed for insubordination. Thus it will be known to-day which of the Police Captains is, and which is not, willing to acknowledge the new Board.

The trial of First Lieutenant MARTIN, against whom charges have been preferred by Deputy CARPENTER, will take place on Thursday. The Lieutenant has sent the following explanation to the General Superintendent:

Frederick A. Tallmadge, Esq.:

SIR: I received your police note of the 21st inst., requiring me to promulgate orders emanating from the new Board of Commissioners.

I am now obliged to inform you of the position I have taken from the time Mr. Carpenter stated that he would obey no orders coming from the Albany Commissioners, viz.: that I am willing to obey the law; but as I am paid to execute, and not to make, the laws, I do not wish to forestall the action of our courts, not being educated as a lawyer. As it is, I intend to act as I shall be directed by legal advice, and also by those who have been elected by the people to promulgate such laws. I do not think, if I were capable so to act, it would be proper for me to act on a case where my own position might be brought in contact with any head or heads of our Municipal Government. My object is to prevent any ill feelings among the officers of this Ward. My business is to protect the citizens of this and other Wards, and preserve the peace, and I do not think it requisite to make myself a judge which of the Boards of Commissioners is correct. You can rest assured that the officers will do their duty promptly in this Ward. As regards the complaint made, our reports were headed "Report of Captain ——, to Chief of Police," and if I should make the report it would not have been by the captain, I being only as that time, a humble lieutenant, and nothing more at present.

Respectfully yours, &c., WM. H. MARTIN.

Mr. Carpenter submitted yesterday the following report to the General Superintendent:

OFFICE OF THE DEPUTY SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE, No. 88 White-street, NEW-YORK, May 25, 1857.

FREDERICK A. TALLMADGE, General Superintendent:

Sergeants Davis, of the Tenth; Stearns, of the Thirteenth; Bryan, of the Nineteenth; and John Cameron, of the Eleventh, having also been ejected from their several Station-houses, also report at this office.

Dr. Jones, of the Medical Staff, as usual, reports himself at this office.

Patrolman Johns, of the First Precinct, also reports to this office.

By order of Commissioner Bowen, I issued an order to Captain Dilks, of the Fifteenth Precinct, to detail two men to the Upper Asylum to-morrow for special duty.

Capt. Hopkins, of the Third Precinct, Capt. Porter, of the Twelfth, Capt. Dilks, of the Fifteenth, and Capt. Speight, of the Twenty-first, made their returns to this office.

The Third Precinct report 2 men sick, 14 on special duty, 32 on patrol.

The Twelfth Precinct reports 8 men on special duty, 2 vacancies, and 19 men on patrol.

Twenty-first Precinct reports 2 sick, 2 with leave, 11 on special duty, 26 on patrol.

Timothy S. Clark and A. S. Wilson, detailed at the Tombs on the 20th inst., have reported to me daily, and, by order of Commissioner DRAPER, have been relieved from duty at that place.

Policeman Nesbitt and Story were detailed to take charge of this office during the night.

DANIEL CARPENTER,
Deputy Superintendent.

Numerous designs for an emblem to be worn by the new police force have been submitted and considered. Mr. Brevoort, Secretary of the General Superintendent, has made a design of one, which will probably be accepted.

It is in the shape of a shield, designed to represent the shield of the State, in the centre of which is the Arms of the State, raised; above is the State motto, "Excelsior," and around the upper edges of the shield the words "Metropolitan Police," while directly beneath is the number of the warrant held by the bearer of the shield. The badge of the Inspectors will be quite similar, an eagle only being added above the shield, with the State motto suspended from the beak. These badges are designed to be chased at the edges, and can be seen a great distance.

The Mayor seems as determined as ever in his opposition to the new Commissioners. To a reporter who called upon him, yesterday, he said:

"I have seen nothing as yet to change my intentions, and shall pursue the course I have already indicated. The decision of the Supreme Court is what we anticipated. Indeed, we are gratified, rather than else, with the result in that Court, because we now have the control of carrying it up to the Court of Appeals; whereas, if it had been decided in our favor, we should not have had the power to press the points to a final decision in that court. We are gratified with it, also, more especially because of the extreme weakness of the points taken by the majority of the bench who decided against us, and the strength of Judge Roosevelt's points.

We do not, therefore, see any grounds whatever for pursuing a different course; on the contrary we are going on as we have. We (the old Board of Police Commissioners) are to have a meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of making appointments, and transacting whatever other business may come before us, as the regular and legally constituted Police Commissioners.

There are not, however, I believe, any cases of insubordination to be tried by us this afternoon. The Captains and men are almost unanimously in our favor; three only refuse to recognize our authority."

The Old Commissioners, Mayor WOOD and Judge RUSSELL, met at the office of the former at 3 o'clock P. M. They remained in session only a few moments and with closed doors. It was understood by the officials of the office that not any appointments or removals were made.

To-day will probably prove the most interesting one since the beginning of this police warfare.

As an effect of the recent decision of the Supreme Court, it may be remarked that several down-town merchants, who have lately had property stolen from them, appeared yesterday at the office of the new Commissioners, in White-street, and gave notice of the robbery, with a description of the stolen property. All such complaints have heretofore been made at the office of Mr. Matsell.

The Antagonists Work Together in Brooklyn.

The Police not on patrol duty yesterday were all out in attendance upon the Sabbath School children. The Deputy Superintendent of Police had charge of the Metropolitans, and Mayor POWELL of those who, with him, stand out against the law. The two forces worked in harmony together, and a stranger could not have discovered anything in their demeanor to indicate that the force was composed of antagonists.

During the day, an order was served upon each of the Captains, signed by Superintendent TALLMADGE, informing them that no further leniency would be shown to those in the Department who, after the receipt of this order, persisted in disobeying the officers of the new law—and that delinquents would be promptly dealt with. To-day it will be known who are disposed to continue contumacious.

A rumor is current that, under the advice of an Ex-Democratic Judge of Brooklyn, the Democrats in the Common Council will undertake to reduce the Police force to three men at the next meeting of the Board. The same parties intended at the last meeting to have moved to rescind the resolution sending the communication of the Police Commissioners to a Special Committee, but were prevented by a premature adjournment.

In the Fourth District, which embraces the Police of the Seventh and Eleventh Wards, the men of the Seventh Ward have refused to obey the Deputy Superintendent. The Eleventh Ward men are all (new) law and (new) order men. On Monday the Captain of the District made the discovery that Assistant Captain Wright had been entering his name as Sergeant. He was quite indignant about it, and some high words ensued. Sergeant Wright has since been placed in command of the Eleventh Ward men by the Deputy Superintendent.

Board of Governors of the Almshouse.

REQUISITIONS.

This being "Requisition Day" the usual monthly demands were granted, with occasional cancellations. Among the medical requisitions for Penitentiary Hospital, half an ounce of musk (genuine) was cut down to a drachm; a pound of nitrate of silver, or lunar caustic, was demanded and allowed, the article being used freely, and frequently. The reading of these requisitions occupied more than an hour, and they were closely scrutinized by the Board. The question came up again (having often been previously discussed) as to the propriety of cutting down the medical requisition of Bellevue Hospital, to one half, the quantity used of wine and spirituous liquors averaging 16 gallons per day.

Governor PINCKNEY thought the quantity enormous. It was abridged to one-half. Among the articles granted, were 8 pounds of iodide of potassa, 3 ounces of morphine, 8 pounds of sulphuric ether, 3 ounces of sulphate of cinchonine, 5 pounds of powdered bark, and 20 ounces of sulphate of quinine, and 6 pounds of chloroform. These items will illustrate the monthly consumption and expense of drugs in that establishment.

A variety of routine communications were read, and referred to appropriate committees.

Governor TOWNSEND then moved (the resolution being adopted) that the Confidential Clerk be instructed to advertise for proposals to employ the surplus labor at the Workhouse and Penitentiaries, in conformity with the law of the State.

CONCERNING POLICE MATTERS.

That gentleman next commented upon some observations which had lately appeared in one of the papers, and ended by submitting the following resolution:

Whereas, The law passed at the meeting of the last Legislature, styled the "Metropolitan Police bill," is calculated to disturb the efficiency of the present police organization of this City; therefore be it

Resolved, That a number of watchmen be temporarily appointed by the Warden at the City Prison, to insure the safe custody of the prisoners in that institution, this Board being alone responsible for the safe keeping of the inmates.

He observed that the Board had power to protect their institutions at all hazards. He could rely on the Wardens of the City Prison, and believed that the institution was safe under his charge, yet as a matter of prudence, he, the Warden, thought it advisable he should be allowed to employ a number of watchmen, if necessary.

Governor ARDESCO said that Mrs. Gray (wife of the Warden) had received a threatening anonymous letter, which was brought to the prison. The Warden being in fear, the writer evidently knowing the interior arrangements of the building, consulted confidentially, (as an old member of the Board,) Mr. Draper. That gentleman had only done that which Governor Townsend and others had asked the Mayor to do on previous occasions.

Governor TOWNSEND thought the Warden was not justified in consulting Mr. Draper, even as an old friend of the Board. He ought to have applied at once to some existing member.

Governor PINCKNEY said that the Warden of the City Prison had also consulted him. He had advised him to speak with Mr. Draper, as the head of the Police force. That might be regarded by some as irregular. He could not vote for both the preamble and the resolution.

Governor DUANE said the Warden had also told him of the anonymous communication. But there was no danger at the Prison. There was no need of help from these City Commissioners. It was a political trick, but if Mr. Gray wanted any further appointments, he had no need to apply to any party of City Commissioners. The Board neither wanted help from them nor from the Mayor. They could do their own business.

Governor ARDESCO remarked that he did certainly recommend Mr. Gray to consult Mr. Draper, but it was with no party view of inducing either him or others to recognize the Commission.

Governor TIEMANN thought it was doubtful whether the City had an existing Police.

Governor PINCKNEY would amend the preamble, and commenced to read, "Whereas, as there is danger"—

Governor DUANE, laughing, interrupted him by saying, "Danger, humbug."

Governor PINCKNEY proceeded. There was no police organization in the City, excepting the Metropolitan Police.

Governor TOWNSEND inquired whether the police were not actually at work who effected the daily arrests.

Governor SMITH regretted extremely that the general question had been opened. He deprecated entering into the merits of the matter. He did not wish to vote for a preamble indorsing either the one police force or the other.

Governor TOWNSEND said that the existing difference of opinion among members of the Board convinced him that his first impression and action were correct. There was a disturbance in the City. He was sure, however, that the Board had the power of protecting the institutions under their charge and care, and though with him the spring of youth was passed, he for one would do his part, if called on by the necessity or the circumstances so to do. [Hear, hear, from several members.] He declared his determination not to withdraw his resolution.

Governor OLIVER said that here was a question which either did or did not disturb the peace of the City, assuming, as he would, that it did; Governor TOWNSEND came down with his usual coolness trying to get four of the Board in the absence of a fifth to commit itself to support a party who are doing their best to disturb us. How did it disturb? Simply because men resist the law. It was the fault of those who resist the law that there was mischief. Advantage ought not to be taken in that Board of the absence of one of its members. No gentleman ought to try to commit the Board by such a resolution as this. He would vote for the resolution but not for the preamble.

Governor TIEMANN said the adoption of the preamble would be no endorsement. It simply recognized a reference.

Governor MATSELL would vote for the resolution. Just for this reason because he agreed with the views of Governor OLIVER. He thought Mr. Gray ought to have addressed himself to the Board, and not to Mr. Draper. He eulogized the patriotic sentiments of Governor Townsend.

Governor ARDESCO said, very emphatically, that no law could of itself disturb the efficiency of any other law. It is rather late in the day to betray want of confidence, when only lately the opposing party had asked the Legislature to commit a greater outrage than this could possibly be.

Governor DUANE said Governor OLIVER had remarked, among other things, that he was an old Whig—he had told him privately quite another thing, that it was not so. [Laughter.] Governor OLIVER did not care for the opinion of Governor DUANE, he says he is a Know Nothing, a Republican, a Whig. What did the Board think of that? He pretended to be honest, but sure he was, his honesty would never kill him, it had not killed him yet. They had made a tool of this Warden. Mr. Draper was certainly one of the best of men. No doubt of that. But what had he done? Just forwarded a set of police fellows to the City prison, where they were not needed. He would recognize the new Commission fully when it was recognized by the Court of Appeals. But the fact was, it was just an affair of political capital. Certain parties wanted votes, and Mr. Gray was led innocently enough into it, but that gentleman saw plainly now that his action had been wrong.

Governor ARDESCO said Mr. Gray had requested Mr. Draper to withdraw this force, and it had been withdrawn.

Governor SMITH proposed an amendment—"Whereas, a law has passed which has changed the former organization, therefore," &c., &c.

Governor DUANE, interrupting, said—"No, Sir!—no change. It has not been acknowledged."

Governor TOWNSEND said he had signed a petition to the Legislature—true, and he had wished for certain modifications. But he never doubted their competency to pass laws affecting that Board. Yet, he would say, the Warden had asserted that two men, before the Board (forming a Committee) had advised him in the first place and directly to consult Mr. Draper, and, as Warden, that was irregular, or wrong.

Governor ARDESCO, on his part, denied that it was so.

Governor TOWNSEND persisted, and spoke of a note which the President had written to Mr. Gray, inquiring into the matter, but which had not been answered. The note was called for and read.

The President explained that he had seen Mr. Gray, that he had told him of his interview with Mr. Anderson, and that at his suggestion he went with Mr. Anderson to Mr. Draper.

Governor TOWNSEND—Then certainly the Police which he said he would send, and that visit to him, were with the sanction of the Committee. Neither Mr. Anderson nor Mr. Gray had a right to act in that manner.

Governor ARDESCO explained, reciting how the Warden had provided himself with pistols, and how he spoke of the defenceless state of certain windows. But Mr. Draper had been spoken to, merely in his original capacity as an old and tried friend of the Board.

Governor PINCKNEY recommended striking out the preamble. It involved a question with which the Board had nothing to do.

Governor DUANE said that would be acknowledging that the right lay on one side.

The President said: "Gentlemen, we have a deal to do," manifesting a wish that the discussion be dropped.

Governor DUANE thought not, or the Board would not feel themselves or their time with this. As to Mayor Wood, he was as big a humbug as the Commissioners, that—he said—was his opinion.

Governor OLIVER said, that had Mr. Gray applied to the old police, he supposed the Board would never have heard of all this. If Governor TOWNSEND was for revolution and anarchy, he hoped he would not commence it in that Board, that it would not arise in that shape.

Governor TIEMANN expressed his belief that the law was unconstitutional. A party in power had passed it manifestly for political purposes—nobody would doubt or deny that the Board ought to indorse neither side. This resolution would certainly indorse one side. Suppose the preamble were altered to say that a police force had been called to the City Prison, for which there had been no necessity, he would move that the preamble be laid on the table, and that the resolution should go to the Committee.

On vote, Governors TOWNSEND, MCGOWAN and PINCKNEY in the negative, the preamble was so ordered. On reference of the resolution to the members on City Prisons with power, Gov. PINCKNEY voted negative, the rest of the Board in the affirmative. The subject then dropped.

THE VACANCY NOT FILLED YET.

The Board took a recess to determine as to filling the existing vacancy by the election of a new member. Before leaving, Governor SMITH said he thought that the Democratic party ought to allow of no more delay in the election of a new member. Governor TOWNSEND replied that the Democratic side of the house had nothing to do with that; it was a vacancy created by the resignation of one of the Whig body, and that when they were ready to unite on a candidate, he would guarantee no opposition.

On return of the Board it was announced that five gentlemen had been named, but no action had been arrived at. The Board then adjourned.

Old-Line Whigs on the Police Question.

A special meeting of the Old-Line Whig General Committee was held last evening at Clinton Hotel, corner Broadway and Eighth-street. J. P. DOLAN, Esq., in the Chair, and WM. A. CONKLIN officiating as Secretary.

The Secretary read the following letter from F. A. TALLMADGE:

OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE METROPOLITAN POLICE DISTRICT, No. 88 White-street, NEW-YORK, May 26, 1857.

Wm. A. Conklin, Esq., Secretary, &c.:

MY DEAR SIR: I received your note inviting me to attend a meeting of the Whig General Committee on Tuesday evening, 26th inst., and regret that the circumstances under which I am placed will preclude my attendance with you. Although placed in office by those with whom I have had no political affinity, I cannot throw off my allegiance to the old Whig Party. I wish it steady success. Its combines the highest principles of honor and integrity, and I shall ever be proud to be numbered among your association of glorious spirits.

Tender, my dear Sir, my thanks to the Whig General Committee for the honor they have conferred upon me by clothing me with official position; and while tendering my resignation as your President, ever regard me as a member of your fraternity, and believe me, sincerely and respectfully, your Whig friend, F. A. TALLMADGE.

The following resolutions were read:

Whereas, This City is at present in a condition of disobedience to law, which may lead to most serious results, and

Whereas, Such condition has been brought about by the endeavors of the municipal officers to prevent the execution of certain laws enacted by the Legislature of the State referring to this City, and

Whereas, It is the province of this Committee, being a representative body, to declare its views upon the subject, therefore,

Resolved, That the time has arrived when it is the duty of all good citizens to throw aside the bonds of party and unite in one common cause in defence of the Constitution and the law.

Resolved, That the action of the authorities of this City in preventing the execution of the new Police and other laws, aiming as it does at the foundation of all representative Government, is of a nature calculated to subvert that Government itself; and can only meet with the disapproval and earnest condemnation of all honest and law abiding citizens.

Resolved, That without presuming to decide upon the constitutionality of these or any other laws, we at the same time assert as a fixed principle of our Government and as a cardinal point of Whig faith that all laws, no matter whose interests they may affect or what changes they may involve, so long as they do not conflict with our manifest duties as citizens should be obeyed and enforced until they are either declared unconstitutional or become the subject of legislative action.

Resolved, That we take this occasion to reiterate our undying devotion to Whig principles. Convinced that they are the Whig principles which will bear the test of time, and declaring that stern obedience to laws as a cardinal point of Whig faith, we pledge ourselves that as far as our influence may extend all laws shall be sustained unlilhey are voided by constitutional means.

S. S. Hutchins, Esq., first spoke to the resolutions. The old Whig party he declared was far from being extinct. Its vitality remained, and as long as this vitality existed, they would oppose resistance to the laws of the State. He did not approve of all the laws passed by the last Legislature, but as long as they were the laws, he believed it to be the duty of every citizen to yield obedience to them.

WM. B. LAWRENCE, Esq., said he understood that an armed organization has been got up to support Mayor WOOD, and oppose the laws of the recent Legislature. He considered it the duty of good Whigs to declare their opposition to any military or other association formed with a view to resist the laws of the State. He did not believe any bloodshed would come of the present anarchical state of things. There would be a good deal of talk among the opposition and but little action.

The resolutions now passed unanimously. There being no further business, an adjournment took place to the third Tuesday in June.

Probably No New Buildings This Year.

The troubles of the Quarantine Commissioners are not yet at an end. Every week discloses new obstacles and accumulated vexations. Hopes were to be built there for time to be both short and pleasant; a portion of Position Bay is there for [illegible] But the people of Bloomingview and the [illegible] about, cry out against their raising a [illegible] upon the spot, and the oyster beds [illegible] being disturbed by the letting go of an anchor on the other. If they do station there, [illegible] declare they will make any [illegible] blow over the Island, and if they [illegible] the threat is that they will do [illegible] the threat should not be executed, the Commissioners of Emigration are about to declare that they will furnish neither doctors, nor medicines, nor nurses, nor food, for any "temporary accommodations." Such, at least, was the [illegible] of the case when our reporter left Bedloe's Island yesterday afternoon. There is now but little [illegible] the farm to mark where the foundation of [illegible] work, except the broken foundations [illegible] buildings. Nearly every charred stick has been removed; and there is yet no evidence of [illegible] erect others in their places. [illegible] raking for oysters in the water fronting the Island, and they are as determined as ever to oppose the establishment of a Quarantine there. [illegible] tion of their legal right to oppose it, [illegible] is common to every other citizen. [illegible] A quarrel among themselves has [illegible] fact that, at best, those who claim [illegible] there are but squatters on the State's property. [illegible] deed has been given them, and they may [illegible] And now those of them who have [illegible] valves will not permit the less [illegible] either to plant or to rake in their vicinity. [illegible] squatted in those waters so long, [illegible] hardened. No poor oysterman [illegible] beside them.

There are not many inhabitants within [illegible] miles of the point on which the Commissioners propose to erect their hospitals. The nearest settlement is Bloomingview, which is quite a little village. In it there is but one voice [illegible] to the establishment of a Quarantine [illegible] and that is to prevent it if possible. [illegible] an ex-Health Officer, who represents [illegible] of the Point, expressed the opinion [illegible] matter what force should be sent down to protect the place, no building would be allowed to stand there, so much were the people [illegible] thither, several of the contracts [illegible] ed for the erection of the [illegible] the Quarantine Commissioners are about [illegible] men of muscle and courage to the [illegible] Commissioners, that they may be [illegible] duty of protecting the property there, [illegible] sons they may employ to put up the buildings. [illegible] men are to be well armed, and the Quarantine Commissioners intend appearing on the ground [illegible] the first day their presence is [illegible] Quarantine Commissioners and the Commissioners of Emigration.

The Commissioners of Emigration now [illegible] the hospitals on the present Quarantine grounds [illegible] supplies, physicians and attendants, or [illegible] The Quarantine Commissioners intend [illegible] immediate to them to-day, to the effect that they will have the buildings ready for them about the [illegible] of June, when they may arrive and occupy them.

The Commissioners of Emigration [illegible] to have anything to do with the new hospitals on the ground that the new Quarantine act does not contemplate that they should have any care or control of any hospital establishment, except the old one, until they are removed to a permanent location. And besides, they claim that the 21st section of the act, which provides for "temporary accommodations" for people sick with yellow fever, who arrive in port, and which appropriates $50,000 therefor, is wholly under the control of the Quarantine Commissioners. The section referred to reads as follows:

Section 21. The Board of Commissioners named in the 1st section of this act, if in their judgment the public health shall require it, shall provide temporary accommodations upon or near Sandy Hook, and also at water, for persons arriving in the Port of New-York, sick with the yellow fever, or other pestilential disease, until the present Quarantine shall be removed under this act, to enable them to procure a suitable station in Sandy Hook. For the retention of vessels having on board any person or persons sick with yellow fever, or other pestilential disease, or coming from ports or places where such fever or other pestilential disease prevails, until the present Quarantine shall be removed under this act: Provided, however, that the expense of such temporary accommodations shall not exceed the sum of $50,000, and shall be approved by the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, and Comptroller, or a majority of them; and provided, further, that said temporary accommodations, and place for the detention of vessels, shall be subject to the present laws and regulations of the Quarantine Station, in the port of New-York.

The Quarantine Commissioners say further, that it is proper that temporary hospitals should be under the control of the Commissioners of Emigration, for the reason that the [illegible] clause of Section 21 declares that it shall be subject to the present laws and regulations of the Quarantine Station in the port of New-York.

The Commissioners of Emigration say, in answer, that they have nothing to do with the Quarantine laws and regulations, nor any control over the officer the State has placed at Quarantine to execute the said laws and regulations; that their business is with the Marine Hospitals, distinct from that which pertains to Quarantine. And they also maintain that if Quarantine laws and regulations are to be maintained at "Staten Island Point," they can only be executed by the regularly appointed Health Officer.

The effect of this difference of opinion will be a delay in getting the "temporary accommodations" ready; so that we will have the pestilence fever in port again, with no other hospitals for the sick than existed last year. But even such proves to be a misfortune, there is one advantage gained by the act. Although the disagreement of the Commissioners may prevent the hospitals from being ready on September 1st, to receive the sick, it will not stand in the way of anchoring the infected vessels in the lower bay, which, after all, is the chief consideration for the protection of the public health, for it is admitted that there is more to be feared from the proximity of infected vessels and cargoes than from persons sick with pestilential diseases in hospitals. It is seldom that such diseases spread from hospitals. That the anchorage ground is not sufficient is also admitted. But that anchoring vessels there would injure the oyster beds is not a certainty. The depth of water required for the vessels is such as to oblige them to keep outside the places in which oysters are planted.

Among the objections strongly urged against them, that the Quarantine is seven miles from the main channel; that in Raritan Bay, the anchorage ground designated by the Commissioners, and available, is but one mile wide, by about three in length. At the place named the State line gives to New-Jersey the greatest portion of the width of the channel. During a storm, it will hardly be possible, if a number of ships are at anchor, for those farthest from the center to avoid running upon the shoal, or crossing the New-Jersey line. If the latter should occur, the New-Jersey authorities say they will seize the vessel. But if the vessels will be infected, there will not, probably, be any strong objection to letting our New-Jersey friends fumigate them for us on their own shore.

[illegible] particular system has been adopted [illegible] the pictures. There is no reason why [illegible] begin or end at one point rather than [illegible] You may wander about with us and stop [illegible] we shall please. As, for instance, [illegible] No. 22, which arrests everybody, and [illegible] the third time more firmly than the first. You hardly need to be told that this is the Andes overlooking one so vast and far behind you—peak beyond peak—with such wonderful depths and the breadth of valley between. For the drawing [illegible] the giant form bring before you the rail- [illegible] of tropical America. You do not wonder that the man who could so completely embody a land [illegible] and vast as this, should have been [illegible] the accredited biter of Niagara. Mr. CHURCH's [illegible] are wonderful for intelligent [illegible] the [illegible] English painters [illegible] boldness of hand, he is certainly [illegible] Mr. CHURCH handles the grandest [illegible] of Nature as lightly as the least. He under- [illegible] it is not really more difficult to paint [illegible] magnificent mountain landscape, or the [illegible] cataract of the New-World, than it [illegible] the porch, church-porch, or the pretti- [illegible] grain of the Old, provided the painter [illegible] in the one case, as in the other, [illegible] precisely what he sees, and not what he [illegible] ought to see, or imagines that he has seen, [illegible] that somebody else will expect to see; the [illegible] of these mistakes being the snare into which the vast majority, not of painters alone, but of artists in general, and private men and women, do [illegible] fall.

One of Mr. CHURCH's qualities is the tact with which he seizes his "point of view." This is admirably displayed in his "Niagara." He has [illegible] the attempt to represent the Falls from below, perceiving, no doubt, that one of the most striking features of the Cataract—its grandeur—must be inevitably belittled by the introduction upon the canvas of the surrounding landscape; for it is impossible to put on the canvas the mighty thunderous roar which concentrates the attention upon the Fall itself in the actual scene. The actual curve and plunge of the river make up the body of his picture, while the lovely landscape of the foreground, with charming banks, is deliciously subordinated, and takes its fitting place as a relief and not as a distraction of the mind. So in this picture of the "Andes of Ecuador," Mr. CHURCH has seized the ample scope of the mountain land- [illegible] and conveys that idea to our mind rather than the idea of gigantic height and mountain [illegible], which no painter can do more than adequately suggest. Your first thought on gazing into the picture (for so luminous and real is the atmosphere that it is really almost a misuse of language to talk of gazing upon it) is of the wonderful expanse before you. By slow degrees you come to feel the sentiment of altitude and majesty [illegible] of your fuller sense of this expanse, and referring it by the harmonious contrast and balance of emotions. There is nothing raw and [illegible] in the picture. The intense brilliancy of the contrasting sunlight is made endurable by the [illegible] of luxuriant verdure, and by the delicious [illegible] of the dusky green ravines through which the rivers flow and the cascades leap, diffusing a delicious haze of softest vapor. The [illegible] of such a picture as this is not the [illegible] which has been made a lie by the [illegible] It is not the truth of [illegible], but pure, pictorial truth—truth, the [illegible] of a human being. This is the [illegible] of all the falsehoods of CLAUDE [illegible] his career, as well as all the [illegible] of TURNER in his later days. Mr. [illegible] has never shown such a mastery [illegible] as in this picture. In the "Niagara," [illegible] the "Vista on the [illegible]," which is one of the finest, and [illegible], and most enchanting pictures of the exhibition. Considerable excitement was manifested during the taking of the vote, and when order was restored, several gentlemen gave notice that they should enter protests against those parts of the basis that they did not approve.

A resolution appointing a Committee of Four to confer with a Committee to be appointed by the Associate Synod on the subject, was passed, and the Moderator named Rev. Dr. J. T. Pressley and Revs. Jas. R. G. Baldridge, S. Miller and J. Pressley as such Committee.

EVENING SESSION.

The Synod convened at 8 o'clock, and Rev. R. D. HARPER opened the proceedings with prayer.

Rev. HENRY BLAIR announced that a delegation from the Associated Synod at Philadelphia was present, and Rev. Messrs. PRESSLY, McKINSTRY and BALDRIDGE were assigned as a Committee to introduce the delegation, whom they led into the room and announced as follows:

Rev. J. T. COOPER, D. D., Rev. JAMES PATTERSON, D. D., and JAMES McCANDLISH, Esq.

As soon as the delegation were seated the Moderator said the Synod was ready to hear their report.

Dr. COOPER then stated that they were from the Associate Synod at Philadelphia, the bearers of a report, and that the earnest desire of that body was to promote an organic union.

The report of the Auditory Committee was recommitted to them.

Old School General Assembly.

[REPORTED FOR THE NEW-YORK DAILY TIMES.]

LEXINGTON, Ky., Saturday, May 23.

The Assembly spent half an hour in devotional exercises, and then proceeded to the regular business. The Committee appointed at the last meeting of the General Assembly to consider the subject of opening a fraternal correspondence with the Associate Reformed Church of the South, reported that a correspondence had been opened with the General Synod of that Church. The Synod had responded by appointing a delegate, Rev. N. M. GORDON, to the Assembly, and requested this body to send a delegate to them. The Synod had also appointed a large Committee of two from each Presbytery, to consider the practicability of a closer union. The report was referred to the Committee on Foreign Correspondence.

VERMONT.

Rev. F. BUTLER, representing the General Convention of Vermont, presented the congratulations of that body, together with a short statement of the affairs of the churches and the state of religion in that region. The Moderator responded to the happy remarks of the delegate, with kind expressions of gratification at the good feeling existing between the bodies, and welcoming the delegate to the favor of the Assembly.

DOMESTIC MISSIONS.

Rev. D. C. JONES, of Georgia, Chairman of the Committee on Domestic Missions, presented the Report.

The number of Missionaries engaged in the service during the past year, is 596.

The total amount of receipts from all sources from March 1, 1856, to March 1, 1857, is $98,248 99, to which add balance on hand in different treasuries, $21,165 17, making the available resources of the Board during the year, $114,969 16.

The amount paid out during the same time is $95,121 16. The amount due to Missionaries on March 1, 1857, was $12,964 66, leaving an unexpended balance of $6,895 54.

The Report closed with a series of resolutions, followed by an urgent appeal from Dr. JONES, pressing the claims of this Board.

Dr. MUSGRAVE, Secretary of the Board, made a few remarks on the subject of those Churches which had been for a long time under the care of the Board, and which ought now to be self sustaining. Although the receipts had been less during the past year than the year previous, the Secretary felt encouraged by the increased demands upon the services of the Board, from every part of the country. After a somewhat long based discussion, the Report was recommitted.

But little business was done further, and the Assembly adjourned until Monday morning.

The Streets—Communication of the City Inspector.

To the Hon. the Common Council of the City of New-York:

GENTLEMEN: It becomes my duty to call your attention to the filthy condition of the streets, and to the necessity of immediate action on the part of your honorable body to enable me to cause them to be placed in a cleanly condition, and thus to preserve the public health against the origin of pestilential disease.

The crisis demands action without delay, and unless such action is taken by the municipal authorities self-preservation will ere long compel our citizens to consider and act upon the subject in their own behalf.

On the 15th day of March last, proposals were, in accordance with previous advertisement, received and opened by the (then) Commissioner of Streets and Lamps, who forwarded a list of the bidders, and naming the lowest to the Board of Aldermen for confirmation; no action has been had in said Board. Since the date mentioned, I am informed the Mayor, Comptroller, and Commissioner of Streets and Lamps entered into an agreement with the parties named as the lowest bidders, by which the parties came in possession of the streets under the stipulation for said parties to cause the work to be performed; and, on the part of the Corporation, to pay, if the work should be performed as per specification.

It will be perceived that although certain persons were named as the sureties of the parties submitting proposals, these sureties are not parties to the agreement subsequently made; and, although large payments have been made the streets of many of the Wards have not been attempted to be cleaned—not a broom, hoe or shovel having been made use of since last Fall for that purpose; yet, in consequence of the non-confirmation and execution of the contracts, the Corporation has, in my judgment, no claim or redress against the proposed contractors; neither have I, for the reasons mentioned below, power to perform this very necessary service. On assuming the duties of the "Bureau of Street Cleaning," in accordance with the provisions of the amended charter, on the 1st instant, I found the condition of this service to be as stated above; on the 9th day of May bills were presented to me for the two weeks prior, these were approved by Mr. EMONS to the last of May, which I had also approved of the previous four weeks. It was urged that the weather had been such as to prevent the execution of the specification, and under the circumstance of the approval by Mr. EMONS, and feeling disposed to give these parties a fair opportunity to perform their agreement I consented to the payment of the work to the 9th inst., but caused a notice to be served on each and all of the contracting parties to the effect that, satisfied that such progress in the work agreed to be performed by them had not been made, as in my judgment could have been done, and that if greater exertion to fulfill the agreement was not made in the future, I should not feel justified in approving bills for the work. Such exertion has not ensued itself, if we view the present condition of the City; and I have refused to certify further drafts upon the treasury, satisfied that the parties agreeing to give our citizens clean streets can wait for the pay for a work which they have no right to expect or demand payment until the service shall have been rendered—a service which if neglected, at this advanced season, must jeopard the prosperity of the City and peril the health and lives of its citizens.

Some of the parties having entered into this agreement have doubtless entered into the same in good faith, and have performed some work, manifesting a desire on their part creditable to their undertaking, but none of them have complied with any part of their specification, and however indulgent it would be my wish to be to these parties, yet my regard for the public interests and my duty will not permit me to give sanction to a longer delay to ward against the consequences which must inevitably result from further neglect.

The subject is now submitted for your action. May I ask "What is to be done?"

Respectfully,

GEO. W. MORTON, City Inspector.

CITY INSPECTOR'S DEPARTMENT,
New-York, May 25, 1857.

[A.]

New-York, ——, 185—.

We, the undersigned, hereby agree and bind ourselves to clean the streets of the —— contract district, being the —— Ward of the City of New-York, and remove the ashes and garbage therefrom, in accordance with the specification issued by the Commissioner of Streets and Lamps therefor, for the sum of —— dollars per year, or at that rate so long as —— may continue to perform the work, subject to the confirmation of the Common Council. The work to be done under the direction and supervision of the Commissioner of Streets and Lamps.

[B.]

Permission will be given to the lowest bidders with adequate security to clean the streets of the several contract districts of the City of New-York, awarded to them subject to the action of the Common Council.

Parties wishing to commence work under this regulation will receive their money according to specification, on the regular pay day of the Comptroller for the work performed by them. Application to be made at the office of the Commissioner of Streets and Lamps.

Signed by
FERNANDO WOOD, Mayor,
A. O. FLAGG, Comptroller,
JOSEPH E. EBLING,
Com. Streets and Lamps.

MURDER ON THE HIGH SEAS.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—May 26.

Before Judge Ingersoll.

The United States vs. John Smith, John Brown, John Ned and John De Costa.—These four men, part of the crew of the brig General Pierce, were, this morning, put upon trial charged with the murder of the Captain of the brig on the high seas. Alexander Nash, Esq., appeared as counsel for the prisoners, and Mr. McKeon and Mr. Joachimsen for the prosecution. Mr. Nash moved the Court, that as the accused were Portuguese, the Jury by which they were to be tried should be composed of six Portuguese and six Americans. He also moved that the prisoners have separate trials, so that the prisoner on trial might have the benefit of the testimony of the other three.

Judge INGERSOLL said that the law was, that the selection of a Jury in criminal cases in the United States Courts was to be governed by the laws of the State at the time, not by the laws of the State at the time of the passage of the act regulating trials; that there was nothing in the laws of the State of New-York which warranted the formation of a jury in the manner moved for, and that the Court, therefore, had no power to grant the motion. That by the decisions of the Supreme Court it had been held that persons indicted for the same offence, but not jointly, could not be witnesses for each other, and that those men, therefore, could not testify in each others' behalf, even were the Court to order separate trials.

Both motions, therefore, were denied.

Mr. Nash then said that, for the sake of saving the point, he would also move to quash the indictment, on the ground that it did not state with sufficient definiteness that this District was the one into which the prisoners were first brought after the offence was committed.

Judge INGERSOLL said that that objection could be taken just as well after the trial, if necessary, and it would be better not to consume the time of the Court with the matter at present.

Mr. Nash said he only made the motion for the purpose of saving the point.

Mr. McKeon then proposed to have Mr. Tinelli sworn as an interpreter.

Mr. Nash inquired if Mr. Tinelli was a native of Portugal, and being informed that he was not, said he should prefer some one who was a Portuguese by birth; that in a former case which he once tried, a person from the Portuguese Consulate was sent for to interpret.

Judge INGERSOLL said it would be well perhaps to have two interpreters.

Mr. McKeon said he had no objection, and requested Mr. Black, who was sitting by, and as he said was counsel for most of the Portuguese about here, to write to the Consul informing him that an interpreter was required. Mr. Black said he had no control whatever over the Consul's motions, but would write the note with pleasure if the Government desired it. Judge INGERSOLL said the Government did desire it, and the note was accordingly sent.

THE TRIAL.

The following Jurors were empanneled:

James Thomas,	William Campbell,
John Barrowclo,	Sam'l C. Waite,
William Sylem,	Joseph M. Dale,
Enos V. Ribbert,	S. Alair,
John F. Craddock,	Cornelius Hartnad,
Patrick Lynch,	Sam'l F. Sammis.

OPENING FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Mr. Smith, the Associate of the District Attorney, stated the case on behalf of the Government.

In this case the prisoners at the bar stand jointly indicted before you for the crime of murder. This indictment has been brought by the Grand Jury, and you have been empanneled, one of the most serious duties which can be imposed upon a Jury, because upon the rendition of your verdict in this case the life or liberty of these parties who now stand charged before you depend. Before stating the facts which the prosecution will lay before you by the testimony of witnesses, I think it right to impress upon you the necessity of divesting your minds from all prejudice, or any feeling of prejudice that may lighter either the prisoners or the administration of Justice. It becomes your duty as citizens to uphold the laws of the United States where they provide for the punishment of an offence, and it is your duty as Jurors to protect those laws. The prisoners formed a portion of the crew of the American brig General Pierce, which originally belonged to Baltimore, but finally became registered in this district as an American vessel, and was here in January of the present year. About the 21st of January she left New York, bound on a voyage to the Coast of Africa, having on board her the master, Capt. Lawson, two mates, a cook, and seven seamen,—eleven individuals in all; upon board of this vessel, and is is for the murder of Captain Lawson that these prisoners are charged, and brought here before you to-day. The vessel cleared from New York about the 21st January, and proceeded on her voyage until about the 10th February, when this murder was committed. Up to that time no difficulty of any importance had occurred on board this vessel. The Captain was a man, as I am instructed, of about 50 years of age, and a strict disciplinarian, a man who, when he gave his orders, expected them to be obeyed immediately, but further than using hard words, or rash expressions to his crew in giving his orders, there does not seem, up to the 10th of February, to have been any difficulty of any greater moment than that. However, on the 10th February, as this vessel was proceeding on its voyage, at about seven o'clock in the morning, while it was the first mate's watch upon deck, the Captain directed the mate, who will be placed upon the stand, to prepare the rigging to be set up upon the foremast of the vessel, and he directed the mate to take with him one of the prisoners, John Smith, and there that work proceed. The mate, in pursuance of these orders, took that man with him and went aloft. He remained aloft for some time,—I think, till between ten and eleven o'clock. He came again upon deck, and the Captain directed him to send this man, Smith, to the wheel and to take with him a man named Morris, who will also be a witness before you, to carry on the work that he had directed to have done. The mate took Morris, and sent Smith to the wheel, and Smith remained at the wheel until about twelve o'clock. About half past eleven the mate came down from aloft again, for the purpose, as he states, of finding the latitude of the ship. It is part of the duty of the mate to do so, and about twelve o'clock every day they ascertained by observation the latitude of the ship, and the Captain and the mate then proceeded to take, as they called it, "the sun." As soon as they had finished that operation, eight bells, or 12 o'clock, was struck, and the watch upon deck was sent down below to dinner. All the four prisoners, with the exception of the man Smith, went to dinner, and the Captain, becoming dissatisfied with the manner in which Smith was steering the vessel, went up and struck him, either with his hand or some instrument in his hand, and the effect of the blow was such as to bruise the face of this man Smith, and blood caused to flow from his person. Smith was then relieved at the wheel, and a man of the name of Brown was sent to it, and Smith, De Costa and Ned, one of the three prisoners, went down to dinner with the rest of the crew. While they were at dinner, these three men sat together and conversed, in some language which was not understood by the remainder of the crew, who were in the forecastle at the time. However, they conversed for some time, and after they had conversed these three men went and provided themselves with knives or dirks from their chests, and proceeded to the deck of the vessel. While this was going on, the mate was in the cabin making up his reckoning, and, of course, not anticipating that any difficulty or danger would occur. These three men left, as I have stated, the forecastle, and one of them, John Ned, went directly to Captain Lawson, who was then standing upon the deck, and asked him why it was that he had struck Smith at the wheel. What reply the Captain made I cannot tell you, but De Costa, who also accompanied this man Ned, struck the Captain with a "heaver," as it is called, which is a piece of wood, about three or four feet in length, and about three or four inches in thickness, upon the head, which felled him, and while he lay upon the deck he struck him several blows again. The Captain arose and parleyed with them. An axe was lying on the deck, and he took it in his hands and tried then to get from forward to aft, for the purpose of getting into the cabin of his vessel. These men anticipated that movement, and got between him and the cabin door, and prevented him from going further. The Captain was then amidships, or about half way between the fore-cabin door and the bow of the ship. While they were there, the Captain stood with his back to the main-rigging, supporting himself, and very faint from the loss of blood. When the first mate came upon deck, and the Captain made the remark, "Have I any officers upon board?" to which this man responded, "Yes, Sir, I am your first officer!" He was proceeding towards the Captain to assist him, when Brown presented a dirk knife at him, and made use of the expression, "If you come on we will kill you!" Then Ned ordered Morris—not one of those implicated—to go and relieve Brown who was at the wheel. Morris did so, and Brown came forward to where the rest of the crew were, and while these four men were together, De Costa again struck the Captain, after having some parley with him, in which the Captain stated "that they had mutinied, might command the vessel, might navigate her where they pleased," and he said to the mate, that he might go into St. Thomas, and pay these men off. These four men again commoned together for some time, and De Costa again struck him a blow which felled him to the deck, and while he laid there, the prisoner Brown plunged his dagger twice into his breast, killing him immediately. After that was done, they called for all hands to heave the Captain overboard, and these four men all assisted in throwing the Captain into the sea, they [illegible] them under heavy sail. They then cleansed the deck upon the vessel, and then which had become [illegible] blood upon the vessel, and then which had become [illegible] the cabin. They then said to the mate, "You must work the vessel up the ship until you get her into port." The mate was then obliged to take the log-book (which will be produced before you) and you will perceive by the entries in it that down upon the [illegible] of [illegible] tion, directed him (the mate) to make [illegible] in the log-book, and that was done [illegible] before his death was [illegible] of February, five days after he was killed. [illegible] an entry like the Captain had been [illegible] ral death. They also [illegible] the crew, that [illegible] Kill them. However, the [illegible] purpose, [illegible] Thomas, I think, upon the 24th of February. The Mate then immediately went ashore, consulted with the authorities, and gave the case up to the Consul General, who has sent them here for trial.

The learned counsel called the attention of the Court to the act of Congress, dated 30th April, 1790, which provided that if any person or persons shall commit a murder on the high seas, he would be guilty of a capital crime. He then alluded to the act of the 3d of March, 1825, Fourth volume, page 115, [illegible] 4, which provided that whoever should [illegible] crime of willful murder should be punished as the Act directs; and also, that every person so [illegible] his assistance or aid, should be deemed guilty of murder. He then referred to the common law [illegible] that accessories were equally guilty with the principal. It was not necessary that a person who was [illegible] guarded as an accessory should actually be present [illegible], for if he were present at the time of the [illegible] tion, and aided and assisted in committing the [illegible] he was equally culpable.

The learned counsel drew the attention of the jury to the fact that the murder was [illegible] meditated, as the prisoners, when the Captain was [illegible] on had, when [illegible] earnest consultation with his comrades, and [illegible] they, apparently from his expression, had [illegible] their books, furnished with knives, [illegible] vicinity to their going to the upper [illegible] and the Counsel, we shall prove, had [illegible] ask at your hands a verdict, never mind how painful it may be to you. If you [illegible] ceive that the evidence is sufficiently strong to convict them, then of course you will acquit them. But if these prisoners have violated our laws, [illegible] themselves responsible to punishment, and it is your duty of the Jury to convict them, and we shall ask such a verdict at your hands on this occasion.

Mr. Nash, the prisoner's counsel, then [illegible] persons, who were charged in the indictment as aiders and abettors, be released from custody, as there was nothing in the indictment, before the Court, to sever that particular offence.

EVIDENCE FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Sydney P. Ingraham was called and examined by Mr. McKeon: He stated that he was Registry Clerk in the Custom House last January; that the papers produced, the Registry oath of George W. [illegible], owner of the brig General Pierce, and the bond, were registered before him in January last by Mr. [illegible] Baltimore. The oath was dated Jan. 15, 1857, and the bond was executed on that day. On cross-examination he said that he could not, of his own knowledge, swear that the General Pierce was built in the United States; he believed, from the papers, that she was built there; he had no personal knowledge that Mr. Hall, the [illegible], was a citizen of the United States, or that the [illegible] of the crew were citizens.

Mr. Nash objected to the papers in evidence on the ground that they did not prove the vessel to be nationalized.

Mr. McKeon said that Mr. Hall himself would be produced, and that these papers were only a link connecting the name of Mr. Hall with the vessel. Although the vessel was foreign built, [illegible] American vessel under the act of 1848, [illegible] passed here.

Messrs. Charles H. Edwards and [illegible] were severally sworn as interpreters in the [illegible] dence to the prisoners in Spanish and Portuguese.

Clarence H. W. Pierce sworn, and [illegible] Mr. McKeon: Was chief mate of the brig General Pierce; shipped on board of her on 19th of January, last, in New-York; left New-York on the 21st of January; O. Lawson was captain of the vessel; the crew of the vessel was about 200 tons; [illegible] she left here she carried the American flag; she was a brig; when we left here, George Hall was mate, was on board; also a cook, [illegible] six other men on board, (naming them) [illegible] present; we left here for Monrovia; the mate was shipped as part of the crew of that vessel; [illegible] course for the coast of Africa; [illegible] on board the vessel on the 10th of February.

By Q.—State what occurred on board the vessel on the 10th of February. A.—I came down to breakfast and a half o'clock in the morning; [illegible] with the Captain; while there he told me to [illegible] the fore topmast rigging set up; when I came on deck I ordered John Smith to get up the rigging [illegible] tackles, and other things I mentioned; [illegible] eight o'clock; about ten o'clock the Captain told me to let Smith come down and take the [illegible] been turned from the mast for [illegible] Captain's satisfaction; I took him down to his place to the top; about eleven [illegible] down to get some old parcelins [illegible] room; when I came up I saw the Captain [illegible] Smith at the helm; I did not see Smith [illegible] I paid no more attention to it; [illegible] and went forward; at seven bells I [illegible] and went with the Captain to John [illegible] 12 o'clock I told the men to go forward to dinner; [illegible] the order was given I saw [illegible] I no less John Ned and De Costa go forward; I went down to get through with my reckoning; [illegible] me about twenty minutes; when coming up and passing the starboard door I saw John [illegible]

Mr. Nash objected to any evidence as to what happened between Smith and the colored man, as irrelevant to this case; there was an indictment pending for the murder of the crew.

Objection sustained.

Q.—Witness resumed—When the affair was taking place between Smith and the cook, I saw the Captain standing on some spars near the foremast, with some of the men about him; the Captain was but little doing anything; when I first came on deck the Captain was standing near him and John De Costa; shortly after I was there I saw John Smith come to the [illegible] but tell with confidence where Brown was at the beginning of the case.

Q.—State what happened then. A.—I saw the Captain on deck; I went forward to him; he asked me where the officers were, or [illegible] officers; I did not then see the [illegible] they were in a kind of [illegible] tain, "Yes, Sir, I am your first officer;" I went along-side of him; John De Costa [illegible] called a heaver in his hands; I [illegible] I saw the second mate [illegible] the men what was the matter; [illegible] member that they gave [illegible] Ned, John Smith, and De Costa; [illegible] the second mate beyond the Captain; [illegible] fy the men, and told them to [illegible] while talking this way, we all [illegible] into the cabin, and so did the Captain; [illegible] doors got blockaded by John Ned and [illegible] John De Costa was near the door, with [illegible] in his hand; I begged them to consider [illegible] about, and proceed then; the Captain [illegible] their duty; the Captain would [illegible] tain had been struck before this; [illegible] it, became so hard blood on his hands; [illegible] De Costa had was about three feet in length, [illegible] three or four inches thick, a little pointed [illegible] they are mostly made of hard wood; he had [illegible] over me; he said nothing; the Captain spoke to them also, and told them that they had [illegible] selves by mutiny, and they might take charge [illegible] with the ship what they thought proper; they answered that they would not, that none of them understood anything about navigation, but that [illegible] navigate the ship; the Captain refused, but afterwards offered to bring the ship to any port they [illegible] name in Europe, or to St. Thomas.

Q.—At this time did you see Smith at the helm? A.—Morris was at the helm; I did not see Smith; but was not doing anything; when the Captain spoke he was standing on the [illegible] ing on to the running rigging; he promised to be [illegible] week; then John De Costa struck the Captain on the head with the heaver; the Captain fell down [illegible] for help; I made an attempt to go up to assist him; I had no arms; I did not see the Captain fall for the first blow; as I made an attempt to go to the Captain's assistance, John Brown stepped up to me with a dagger, or clasp knife, and said he would cut me if I had not stepped back quickly I would have been stabbed; then I saw Brown start forward, and plunge the dagger into the Captain's left breast; the Captain was lying on the deck at this time.

Mr. Nash objected to the competency of the evidence, on the ground that the other prisoners should not be charged with murder, because they were looking on when Brown stabbed the Captain; also, that the Captain was out of his place when he went into the prow of the ship, and commenced an altercation with the men.

Objection overruled, and exception taken.

Examination resumed.—When De Costa struck the Captain with the heaver, I saw John Ned and De Costa, the latter before the Captain, and Ned behind the Captain; when Brown plunged the dagger into the Captain's breast Ned and De Costa were standing; I could not say certainly where Smith was, but believed he was standing at the cabin door; at this time De Costa had the heaver in his hand—Brown had the dagger; did not see anything in Ned's hand; when I first came on deck I saw a dagger in the hands of Smith; the Captain bled after he was struck; he was a strong man, but seemed very weak when struck by De Costa; he then sank down on the deck, and was lying there, with his head aft, when Brown stabbed him; I did not see him stabbed more than once; he lay about a minute or two after being stabbed, and the men looking at him; they then called out "in the water," and called "all hands;" I could not say whether he was dead when thrown into the ocean, but it stands to reason that he was; it was John Ned who said "in the water;" the first words were "in the water," and then "all hands;" the men came to the sea, John Ned, John Brown, John De Costa and John Smith, then took up the Captain and threw him over the gangway; he was bleeding, and there was blood on the deck.

Q.—When the captain was forward among the men, where was the cook?

Mr. Nash objected—that there was no evidence to disclose relative to the murder of the cook; on a subsequent day of trial he should be commenced upon.

Mr. McKeon stated that he meant to show that the cook had been forced overboard, and that he went there in presence of a duty.

Objection overruled.

The Arrest for Forgery—Extraordinary Proceedings of a United States Commercial [illegible]—The Circumstances of the Case.

Special Correspondence of the N. Y. Daily Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Monday, May 25, 1857.

The telegraph will have informed you of the arrest of A. P. GERRY, the Commercial Agent of [illegible], on the charge of piracy, [illegible] by Dr. A. VAN CAMP, his predecessor in [illegible]. The circumstances out of which this proceeding [illegible] are somewhat curious and interesting. [illegible] Inasmuch, as everybody knows, constitutes [illegible] of the country [illegible] remotely [illegible] all other [illegible] and not [illegible] a thought of [illegible] by the very law per[illegible] enterprise [illegible] that [illegible] purposes of gain. The mixed population [illegible] rivalry, living quite in a state of nature, equipped [illegible] with the remembrance of clothing, ruled by party chiefs, and entirely without law or [illegible] restraint thrown, they are otherwise [illegible], are very docile, and easily influenced [illegible] by the superior intelligence of a civilized [illegible].

It was in April, the chief port of the Friendly Group, that Dr. A. VAN CAMP, of San Francisco, obtained the appointment of U. S. Consul, not because of its emoluments, for pecuniarily it is worthless, but because of the facilities it gave him to do business there as a member of the firm of J. F. CRAPES & Co. In the [illegible] of his official career, VAN CAMP was called upon to act, for the benefit of whom it might concern, two American barks and their cargoes, the Hilsea and the E. Harps, which came into Apia in distress, and were unable to proceed on their contemplated voyages to Australia. In all these proceedings, he appears to have been scrupulously careful to follow every form, and take every receipt, and consular demanded by consular or maritime [illegible]. In each case, vessel and cargo were [illegible] by order of her commander or his agent, after regular survey, condemnation and order of sale. Subsequently the owners of the vessels relinquished claims against their agents became dissatisfied with VAN CAMP'S course, made complaints against him at Washington, and procured his suspension, but the ruling not suiting the self-styled "Commissioner" Jenkins, he took the responsibility of setting it aside, and rendering a judgment [illegible] for $6,800, the full demand. This accomplished, the "Deputy U. S. Marshal" appointed by Jenkins, in execution of the orders of the latter, took all of VAN CAMP'S property, and the entire cargo of the Hilsea, including about $70,000 worth of property, which V. F. GERRY swore, from personal knowledge, belonged to other parties than VAN CAMP [illegible] which there was no attempt to contest. Jenkins pocketed his share of the plunder, and left at [illegible] FRANKS, Captain of the Hilsea, [illegible] a Judge in the suits against VAN CAMP [illegible] $4,000, the sum which he was to [illegible] VAN CAMP, had he taken his cargo [illegible] according to the charter party. This [illegible] part of the proceeds of sales, and he also [illegible] Jenkins, pocketing over $[illegible] worth [illegible] were purchased for about $10,000, every [illegible] which was appropriated any way or another [illegible] money, regardless of forms of law or no law [illegible] Jenkins [illegible] VAN CAMP [illegible] Jenkins [illegible] Jenkins [illegible] Jenkins which will positively be sold at auction, at the Merchants' Exchange, New-York, on TUESDAY, June 23, at 12 o'clock,

POWERS' GREEK SLAVE AT AUCTION.

THE GREEK SLAVE,

This world-renowned statue, which is valued at over $6,000, is the celebrated Greek slave, which has been exhibited through the country several years since for the benefit of Mr. Powers, and afterwards purchased of him by the Cosmopolitan Art Association, of Cincinnati, who awarded it as a prize to the present possessor, Mrs. Kate Gillespie, and on whom account it is now to be sold, as will be seen by the following correspondence:

"BRADY'S GALLERY, Pa., May 6, 1857.

R. H. LEEDS, Esq., Auctioneer, New-York—Sir: I have in my possession the original and world-renowned statue of Powers' Greek Slave, which was awarded to me as a prize by the Cosmopolitan Art Association some three years since. Not being able to retain so valuable a work, I have, at the suggestion of several friends, been induced to write you as to the policy of selling the statue by auction. Please inform me what you think of the plan, and whether you would undertake such a sale, and oblige from the above mode of disposing of it, and oblige yours, &c., KATE GILLESPIE."

"NEW-YORK, May 16, 1857.

MRS. KATE GILLESPIE—Dear Madame: We have the pleasure of acknowledging yours of the 6th inst., and in reply may leave to say that if the statue in your possession is the Greek Slave, by Hiram Powers, we have no hesitation in saying that with proper publicity and the facilities enjoyed by us for the sale of works of art—the interest excited—we can give you a very satisfactory price. Very respectfully, &c.,

R. H. LEEDS & CO."

"BRADY'S GALLERY, Pa., May 17, 1857.

R. H. LEEDS & CO.—Gentlemen: Your letter of the 16th is to hand. After due consideration I have concluded to risk the sale of the Slave at auction, and have accordingly had it packed to you in charge of my friend Mr. Shaw, who will call and arrange matters preliminary to the sale, and also place in your possession the proof of the genuineness of the statute over Mr. Powers' own signature. Trusting you will give the sale a wide publicity, and receive a good price for the marble beauty which I so reluctantly part with, I await the result with the greatest anxiety. Yours, respectfully, KATE GILLESPIE."

The above Statue will be placed on exhibition one week previous to the sale in the Rotunda of the Merchants' Exchange, and sold as above without reserve, presenting probably the only opportunity in a life-time for securing the greatest work of the most celebrated living sculptor.

TO STEAMBOAT OWNERS AND BUILDERS.—GRIFFITH'S PATENT SCREW PROPELLER.—The attention of steamboat owners and builders is particularly invited to the great superiority of GRIFFITH'S PROPELLER over all others used in the propulsion of steam vessels. Many and various experiments have been made to test this Propeller against the very best, and in all cases it has come off victorious. It can be set to any desired pitch; is more efficient for a given surface of blade; causes little or no vibration to the stern of the vessel; gives high results for the amount of power applied, and offers but little resistance when the vessel is under sail only. Terms for its introduction and use liberal. For further information, apply to

Sole Agent for United States,
No. 68 Broadway, New-York.

They are 15 hands high, weigh 1,150 pounds each, are of a rich glossy black color, and perfectly matched in every particular. They are very fast high mettled horses, and probably have no superiors in the New-England States; at three years old they received premiums at the Middlesex County and Hilliard Cattle Fairs, (see Journal of the Union Agricultural Society for 1856, pages 90 and 102.) J. A. HARWOOD, Littleton, Mass.

BAY HORSES.—A GENTLEMAN ABOUT leaving for Europe, wishes to dispose of a pair of bay horses 15½ hands high, of remarkable style and action, sound and kind in every respect. Apply at private stable No. 18 Great Jones-st.

MEDICAL.

CLOVER-TOP FOR THE SEXUAL ORGANS.—The Clover-top is a remarkable specific for nervous debility, impotency, spermatorrhœa, and all diseases of the sexual organs, which it invigorates and restores to perfect health. It is a remedy of great power, and should be used by all who desire to be free from the effects of disease. Price $1 per package, or four packages for $3. Prepared and sold by A. S. HAYDEN, Druggist, No. 80 Prince-st., New-York. Price $1 each for vial.

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATION OF Highly Concentrated Compound FLUID EXTRACT OF BUCHU is prepared directly according to the rules of Pharmacy and Chemistry, with the greatest care and chemical knowledge and care devoted in its combination. Its popularity has extended in all directions, and whether used in town, country, hospital, or private practice, has invariably given the most decided and unequivocal satisfaction, and proved the most salutary and beneficial of remedies. It has been and is used with great success, Benecfortb, let it be understood, for the proofs are too ever-balancing to be contradicted, that HELMBOLD'S Highly Concentrated Compound Fluid Extract Buchu is the most valuable remedy ever offered to the afflicted.

The mass of voluntary testimony in possession of the proprietor is immense, embracing names well known in science and fame, celebrated Physicians and distinguished Clergymen.

See Professor Dewees' valuable work on the Practice of Physic, and most of the late standard works of medicine.

It is a medicine which is perfectly pleasant in its taste and odor, but immediate in its action, and it is taken by persons of either sex, without hindrance from business or medical advice, as explicit directions for use, and an ample number of reliable and responsible certificates, to convince the most skeptical, will accompany each bottle.

Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Delivered to any address. Prepared and sold by HENRY T. HELMBOLD, No. 52 South 10th-st., Philadelphia. Sold by F. W. WELLS & CO., No. 115 Franklin-st., New-York, and BARNES & PARK, Brooklyn, New-York.

NEW AND IMPORTANT DISCOVERY IN THE SCIENCE OF MEDICINE.—THE GENUINE Rose are genuine unless the engraving of the Seals of the Patent Office of England, the Seals of the Hôpital de Pharmacie de Paris, and the Imperial College of Vienna, are fixed upon each wrapper, and around each case.

Sold by Dr. H. A. BARROW—Member of the Imperial College of Vienna, and Royal College of Surgeons, London, who may be personally consulted at his residence, No. 187 Prince-st., (few blocks west of Broadway) New-York, from 12 o'clock in the day, to 2 o'clock, and from 6 o'clock till 8 in the evening, (Sundays excepted.)

TRIESEMAR No. 1.—In the remedy of general and local debility, loss of vital power, premature decay, and all the distressing consequences arising from early abuse, &c.; all physical impediments vanish like magic before its influence, thus rendering its use invaluable to those entering the married state.

TRIESEMAR No. 2—Entirely eradicates all traces of those disorders which separate and cohort have so long been thought an antidote for, to the ruin of the health of a vast portion of the community.

TRIESEMAR No. 3—Is the great European remedy for that class of disorders which arise from the English system, treated with mercury or the inevitable destruction of the patient's constitution, and which all the Sarsaparilla in the world cannot remove.

TRIESEMAR Nos. 1, 2 and 3, are prepared in the form of a lozenge, devoid of taste or smell, and can be carried in the weakest pocket. Sold in the cases and divided in separate doses, as administered by Velpeau, Lallemand, Roux, Ricord, &c. Price $2 each, or four cases in one for $6, which saves $4; and in $6 cases, whenever there is a saving of $2.

Special arrangements having been made with the various Expresses, the nine-dollar cases of the Triesemar, and the larger sizes, will be forwarded by Dr. Barrow, carriage paid, immediately on receiving a remittance, to any part of the world, securely packed, and addressed according to the instructions of the writer, thus secreting to the public the genuine Rosemar of Triesemar, and effectually preventing them from spurious and pernicious imitations. The three-dollar cases sent as usual, but not free of carriage.
